Digital-first business banking provider Narvi to showcase innovative solutions at Europe's largest financial technology event

Amsterdam, 16/05/2023- Narvi, a provider of digital business banking accounts and builder of next-generation core banking solutions, has been selected as part of this year's startup cohort for the Money20/20 conference in Amsterdam. Money20/20 is the largest gathering for banks and banking technology providers in Europe. The Narvi team will also be presenting at this year's conference.

Narvi is one of the few regulated Electronic Money Institutions in Europe building its own core banking technology. According to co-founder Neil Ambikar, "By building our own technology, we can provide a tailored solution to our business clients. We are also able to make this technology and our APIs available to more complex customers for them to integrate into their own systems or use Narvi as a Banking as a Service Platform."

Marina, Finance Manager for a large group, shared her experience with Narvi: "Narvi has one of the fastest and easiest onboarding processes I have seen for corporates. It is a fully digital process which takes 10-15 minutes to complete as compared to many banks and neobanks which require you to fill in PDFs, manually sign them, and send a large number of documents via email. Once the account was approved, the IBAN is there in the dashboard the next time you login. So there are no 10 different places you need to login and update your information which is convenient. As we manage multiple companies, it is also useful that I can manage all the companies in one place by just switching between the companies via the same user account."

Another customer praised Narvi's commitment to improvement: "One of the great things about being a Narvi customer is the new features they release every few weeks to make things that much easier."

Narvi is driven by its mission to bring Nordic trust and reliability to international banking. The company was founded by a team of entrepreneurs and seasoned professionals in the fintech industry who are dedicated to building the banking services of the future.
