Netpremacy wins 2020 Google Cloud Specialization Partner of the Year - Work Transformation

Wednesday 21 July, 2021

Netpremacy has won the 2020 Google Cloud Specialization Partner of the Year - Work Transformation award.

To win the 2020 Google Cloud Specialization Partner of the Year - Work Transformation award, Netpremacy demonstrated Google Workspace expertise and commitment to customer services.

Michael Carter, Netpremacy's CEO, said "We are proud to win this award, it has been a particularly challenging year for many businesses. Our teams have worked tirelessly to help customers new and existing, to accelerate their digital transformation, and navigate the pandemic.

"This global award is recognition for the hard work and dedication across all our teams, our strong partnership with Google Cloud, and our continued investment in all areas required to provide the best customer experience. It's particularly impressive to win an award for Workspace Specialization two years in a row."

Andrew Martin, Commercial Director at Netpremacy said: "Our customers have been truly inspiring throughout the last 18 months. All of them reacted swiftly to the challenges faced and turned them into opportunities. I've been so pleased with our team who were there beside them every step of the way."

"Google Cloud Specializations recognize partner excellence and proven customer success in a particular product area or industry," said Carolee Gearhart, Global Channel Chief at Google Cloud. "Based on proven, repeatable customer success and strong technical capabilities, we're delighted to recognize Netpremacy as Work Transformation Specialization Partner of the Year."
