New Age Gap Dating App Allows Users To Create Personal Ads To Promote Themselves Amid COVID-19

Friday 29 May, 2020

Gaper, a new gap dating application, has emerged as the best alternative to Craigslist personals advertisements. Gaper is designed for older men dating looking to date younger women or older women looking to date younger men. Recently, Gaper has released the “TOP-PICKED” feature and allows the user to create personal dating ads to increase the dating chance during the COVID-19 pandemic.

With personal ads, Gaper users can create personal listings and discuss their backgrounds, qualities, and other attributes. Users will then be able to see the listings of other people in their geographic area. To maximize benefits, users can consider using a proven “boost” feature to maximize their profile’s exposure for two, twelve, or twenty-four hours, during which time their profile will be highlighted and introduced to online users nearby. Special technology, harnessing the benefits of artificial intelligence, manages to connect users like never before.

“We are proud to be a leader with our personals ads approach,” stated Cater Chen, the CEO of Gaper. “People every day connect on our platform and find the relationships they are looking for. We empower everyone to be themselves and hope our members can find love in such a hard time.”

Gaper releases free searching features. Users can search and meet millions of verified members and the possibilities for connecting with someone new are endless. Once a connection is made, people can engage in secure personal conversations via a direct message chat feature to build connections and get to know one another. Also, users can find people on their terms and freely search all listings in real-time. Further, Gaper allows people to share pictures, explore new lifestyles, and verify accounts with ease for privacy and security.

With the Coronavirus keeping people indoors, singles aren't just meeting online and not satisfied with the only message connection. Gasper is going to release a one-to-one video chat feature within this year.

Now, the Gaper app is available on the iOS App Store or Google Play Store. To learn more about the Gaper app, please visit GoGaper.com.
