New Service at The London Rheumatology and MSK Clinic on Harley Street

Monday 26 October, 2020

(London) 26/10/2020 – Consultant rheumatologist Dr Naveen Bhadauria is proud to announce a new rheumatology service at his clinic on world-renowned Harley Street in central London. The clinic is close to Cavendish Square Gardens, at the junction of Harley Street and Queen Anne St. It is just a ten-minute walk from Oxford Circus, Great Portland Street, and Regent's Park tube stations.

Dr Bhadauria says the services at the clinic cover all musculoskeletal needs. Patients suffering from osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, psoriasis arthritis, fibromyalgia and lupus will find comprehensive treatment and compassionate care at the clinic. Patients suffering from chronic pain are welcome to visit as well.

In addition to general rheumatology, Dr Bhadauria also treats:

back pain

neck and shoulder pain

ankylosing spondylitis

soft tissue rheumatism

carpal tunnel syndrome

osteoporosis

gout.

"One of my primary goals as a consultant rheumatologist is to offer patients high-quality, private care in locations that are easily accessible," Dr Bhadauria said. "Being able to offer this new rheumatology clinic affords us the ability to care for more patients in a comfortable and convenient setting. I look forward to meeting new patients at the Harley Street office."

Patients wishing to see the doctor can contact the clinic directly at 020 7079 2100 or his PA on 0207 126 7264. Dr Bhadauria encourages new patients to visit his website to get a better idea of the conditions he treats and the types of treatments he offers.

In addition to the Harley Street location, Dr Bhadauria also has offices at two other locations in the London area including Spire London East in Ilford and the BMI Cavell Hospital in Enfield.

About Dr Bhadauria

Dr Naveen Bhadauria is an NHS consultant rheumatologist at North Middlesex University Hospital NHS Trust, where he has practised since 2018. He also practices as a private rheumatology consultant at his three clinics across the London area.
