New Support for Tinnitus Sufferers in Sandbach

Tuesday 12 December, 2017

12/12/17 A new group to support local people with tinnitus is being formed in Sandbach. Tinnitus is experienced by around one in ten people, which is around 1,800 people in Sandbach alone. The first meeting will take place on Monday 8 January, 7.00-9.00pm at Sandbach Cricket Club, Hind Heath Rd, Sandbach CW11 3LZ.

The group is being organised by local volunteer Lucy Naylor who has over 20 years combined NHS and private sector experience as a clinical audiologist and hearing aid audiologist. Lucy says: “Whilst tinnitus can be complex it can be helped and does not have to be a troublesome symptom. There is a lack of specialists nationwide offering this specialist help. I plan on facilitating a patient led help group that will enable people with tinnitus gain a good level of understanding and have access to support to enable tinnitus to be a non-troublesome symptom.”

Colette Bunker, British Tinnitus Association (BTA) Volunteer and Support Group Manager comments: “Being among people who have tinnitus, listening to their experiences and how they manage it, can be a tremendous help. I witness this first hand when attending group meetings. It is amazing seeing the difference it makes to people, especially those who have recently been diagnosed.”

Tinnitus is defined as the experience of sounds with no external source, most commonly ringing or buzzing, but sometimes experienced as whooshing, clicking or even music. Many people aren’t troubled by sounds they hear, but for around 10%, the condition has a significant impact on their quality of life, often linked to stress, anxiety or sometimes depression.

Colette adds: “Tinnitus can be an isolating condition, with friends and family struggling to understand how it feels to adapt to the presence of loud or persistent noises. Some people choose to bring a partner or family member to the meetings, which can often help both parties understand more about the condition and the experiences or behaviours it can bring.”

The British Tinnitus Association (BTA) is an independent charity which supports thousands of people who experience tinnitus and advises medical professionals from across the world.

The BTA is the primary source of support and information for people with tinnitus in the UK, facilitating an improved quality of life.

They aim to encourage prevention through its educational programme and to seek effective treatment for tinnitus through a medical research programme.

The support the BTA offers to 335,000 people per year who are affected by tinnitus is reliant upon the generous donations of their supporters and fundraisers. They receive no government support and need to raise half a million pounds each year to continue their UK wide support. Donations can be made via www.justgiving.com/BTA

Not an illness or disease, tinnitus is a term that describes the sensation of hearing a noise in the absence of an external sound. The noise can have virtually any quality. Ringing, whistling, and buzzing are common, but more complex sounds may also be reported. Troublesome tinnitus can be very distressing for the affected individual, and issues may arise with sleep, concentration and mood. However, in many cases, subtle changes in people’s environment can address these issues, and improve quality of life.

The experienced team at the BTA understands the impact that tinnitus can have on the lives of those who experience tinnitus and those who live with them, so seeks to provide the most appropriate and
