ABOUT THE FILM

ONE ROGUE REPORTER is the story of Rich Peppiatt, a tabloid hack who snaps over his red top paper's fixation with sensationalism over substance and titillation over truth. When the phone hacking scandal engulfs Rupert Murdoch's News of the World, throwing tabloid ethics under the spotlight, Rich decides to use the skills he's honed on Fleet Street to turn-the-tables on the press barons peddling sex, lies, racism and scaremongering under the cloak of journalism. His film highlights the double-standards of some elements of the traditional media who have appointed themselves the UK's moral guardians. Peppiatt targets influential individuals including the Daily Mail's Paul Dacre and former Sun editor Kelvin Mackenzie with the tactics they employ to devastatingly hilarious effect.

Featuring interviews with heavyweights from film, comedy, journalism and politics including Steve Coogan, Hugh Grant, John Bishop, Kate Smurthwaite, Roy Greenslade, Nick Davies, Owen Jones, Joan Smith, AC Grayling, Kate Smurthwaite and former Deputy Prime Minister, ONE ROGUE REPORTER is a riotously satirical film: part exposé; part comedy caper and a rally against the dangers of unaccountable press power.

Everyone has fantasised about emailing their boss & unleashing what they really think of them. Few actually ever reach for the keyboard. Fewer still end up pressing 'send'. No one has made a film about it - until now.
