In recent discussions with their workforce, Pacey Promotions has been addressing the importance of laying strong foundations when striving for professional success. Just like a building needs solid foundations to stand the test of time, success requires a firm base of knowledge and skill if a person is to achieve sustainable, long-lasting success. Below, Pacey Promotions have outlined the ten essential foundations of success created by Jim Rohn, and revealed how they must be applied within the sales and marketing industry.

Philosophy

Understanding the meaning behind what they are doing is a simple shift that changes everything for an aspiring entrepreneur. It creates passion and purpose.

Attitude

Attitude requires a person to create a new perspective so that they can utilise this passion and purpose. In the fast-paced, competitive sales and marketing industry, attitude is what helps a person overcome challenges, and maintain a positive, can-do attitude.

Goals

Goals are imperative to achievement and create a clear map towards success. Pacey Promotions encourage their young workforce to set personal, professional goals regularly to ensure they are always moving forward.

Leadership

People don't have to be in a position of power to lead, as long as a person is inspiring others, they are leading.

Lifestyle

Success depends on creating a life full of possibilities and recognising opportunities. Pacey Promotions have built a culture focused possibilities and encourage their workforce to make the most of each opportunity.

Communication

All successful entrepreneurs share excellent communication skills and can relate to others with accuracy and sincerity.

Influence

Successful people are masters of influence and can create solutions and spread positivity through their actions and ideas.
