

Papa John's Launches New Pizza With An Ethnic Twist

Tuesday 14 October, 2014

Papa John's is looking to spice things up this autumn thanks to a brand new offering that will light up your taste buds.

The UK's number one pizza chain has partnered with Pataks to launch its newest product, the Tandoor Spice Pizza. The pizza is topped with authentic Indian-inspired ingredients such as Phal sauce, double Tandoori Chicken, green peppers, red onion, tomatoes and mint raita.

Andrew Gallagher, senior marketing director for Papa John's UK, said: "This is another delicious addition to the Papa John's menu and one we're proud to be launching.

"At Papa John's our customers are key, which is why we always work hard to make sure our menu offers a good choice and satisfies customer demands. New additions like the Tandoori Spice Pizza offer our customers something different while still upholding the high standards and values that have made our company such a worldwide success. As per our motto, we endeavour to serve only 'Better ingredients. Better pizza' and this new pizza is no exception"

Papa John's was founded in the USA in 1984 and there are now more than 200 stores across the UK, each fulfilling John's 'Better ingredients. Better pizza' philosophy. Internationally Papa John's has over 4,000 stores in 33 countries.

The new pizza is now available in stores and on online. To find your nearest store, for more information or to view a menu visit www.papajohns.co.uk.
