

Pioneering Industry Veteran Peter Goldsmith Joins Chestertons Board

Thursday 14 May, 2015

Peter Goldsmith, one of the global property industry's foremost innovators, with more than half a century's experience to his name, has been appointed to the board of leading London residential and lettings agency Chestertons as a non-executive director. A Fellow of the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors, Peter previously sat on the boards of leading property companies including Humberts Ltd and COBA Asset Management.

Robert Bartlett, Group CEO of Chestertons, says: "We are absolutely delighted to welcome Peter. This is a fabulous coup for our business, and we know that he will be a hugely valuable asset to the company as we consolidate our position at the top end of the London residential market. Peter is renowned as a truly forward thinking expert in our industry – a genuine pioneer – which makes him an ideal fit for Chestertons' proactive attitude to expanding the business and constantly innovating to deliver ever higher standards of excellence and commitment to customer service."

Peter Goldsmith brings an unparalleled wealth of experience in commercial and residential property, both in the UK and overseas. Now in the sixth decade of a highly distinguished career, he has built a strong reputation for driving forward new businesses and has fulfilled partner and CEO roles across a number of flourishing agencies and consultancies, leading the development of company vision and strategy, performance monitoring and corporate governance.

Peter also established his own successful private real estate business, Sinclair Goldsmith, which floated on the London Stock Exchange in 1987. Last year he launched Peter Goldsmith LLP, a Harley Street consultancy practice offering advice to investors, institutions, property companies and high-net-worth individuals. He has particularly strong business connections in the Far East, where he liaises with major institutional investors. His extensive network of contacts spans the legal, accountancy, property, surveying and architecture sectors.

Peter comments: "I am delighted to join the board of Chestertons at this very exciting time in the company's evolution. I hope my 52 years in the property industry, with a wide-ranging involvement both in executive and non-executive capacities, will enable me to play my part in promoting this outstanding global brand."
