Prodera Consulting launches new Cloud Advisory Service to help organisations succeed in the Cloud.

Wednesday 27 April, 2016

LONDON - April 27, 2016 - Prodera Consulting, a newly established provider of professional consulting services in the United Kingdom, announces the launch of its Cloud Advisory Service. With a flexible and comprehensive approach to IT transformation that embraces the emergence of Cloud Computing, Prodera Consulting assists organisations worldwide to navigate the complex world of enterprise technology and Cloud adoption.

"We are excited to launch our Cloud Advisory Service today", said Pierce Lynch, Prodera Consulting's Managing Director. "Cloud Computing is a top priority for today's modern business and the launch of our specialist advisory service is intended to help our clients quickly unlock the opportunities Cloud Computing has to offer. We are committed to providing our clients with the technology, the tools and most importantly the expertise they need to succeed in the Cloud supported by a partner they can trust."

As an integral part of many organisation's future technology strategy, Cloud Computing provides a range of capabilities that extends existing IT services. The flexible model that Cloud Computing offers is an attractive proposition that business leaders can't ignore, and the need to deliver IT services quickly to an ever growing mobile workforce and customer base is high on many organisation's agenda. The unprecedented growth of both public and private Cloud Computing is radically changing the way that IT infrastructure and applications are delivered, and this can be quite a challenging prospect to get right.

Our Cloud Advisory Service is here to help address the major challenges of enterprise Cloud adoption from readiness and planning, architecture and design through to enablement, migration and effective service management. We draw on our experience and expertise to enable our clients to successfully adopt, consume and manage the latest Cloud technology through a flexible advisory process.
