Reality Clash Launches Token Sale Competition

Wednesday 13 September, 2017

Reality Clash, the world's first Augmented Reality (AR) mobile combat game, is running a competition to win a personalized machine gun, open to all participants of its ongoing token sale.

The innovative FPS (First Person Shooter) game uses the camera on the player's iOS or Android mobile device to overlay graphics onto their real-world environment, so that streets, buildings and other features become part of the game's landscape. Now, Reality Clash are offering the chance to token sale contributors to get their name in the game through a personalised gun to use in combat.

The gun has been designed exclusively for the Reality Clash referral competition and will be the only style gun ever made for the game.

How To Enter

Anyone who participates in the crowdsale will receive an email containing a referral code and link. All deposits that take place via a referral link will earn that referrer a 5% bonus in RCC Gold, the in-game currency. RCC Gold gives players access to inventory such as weapons, armour and other equipment.

The winner of the competition will be the person who accrues the largest referral balance by the end of the crowdsale, at 5pm UTC on 29 September 2017. To take part simply sign up and deposit any amount of Ether (ETH) to the Reality Clash token sale, and receive your referral link for promotional use.

$2M Pledged to Date

Over $2 million was raised in the Reality Clash pre-sale. Participants in the current crowd sale will be able to purchase RCC Gold coins at a 70% discount now and then get exclusive access to weapons from November 2017. Participants will also gain access to unique weaponry that will not be issued again afterwards, and will be eligible for an early demo of the game.

For any questions regarding the referral program contact support@tokenmarket.net. To participate in the crowdsale visit https://reality-clash.com

Those who have already participated in the token sale will automatically receive an email with referral details. Pre-sale participants please email info@reality-clash.com directly for your referral code. The winner will be announced one week after the token sale closes, and referral bonuses will be credited in RCC Gold after the end of the sale.

Good luck!
