Centro Óptico Clínico Losan has been awarding women who represent women within the world of communication and the arts in general for five years. Achieving this award means that whoever receives it has achieved excellence and a way of projecting their work outside the common areas.

This 2022 edition has been a difficult year to choose. However, María José Peris Aliaga has deserved this public recognition thanks to the trajectory she has demonstrated throughout her professional career and, in particular, her acting work in the interpretation of the character of Tórtola, a production of the Institut Valencià de Cultura.

The award was presented by Ms. Esther Santillana and Ms. Mª Ángeles Fayos, producer and manager of the Teatro Olympia as well as academic at the Academy of Performing Arts. It consisted of a replica of a white grail made by "Per Amor a l'Art" and an honorary diploma.

Centro Óptico Clínico Losan also offered a pair of prescription swimming goggles to the award winner, as well as a book "The Holy Grail" by Dr. Ana Mafé and a bouquet of flowers brought by Innovación Floral de Puzol.

The event closed with an a capella concert by the international singer Noelia Zanón, based in Mexico, and a toast with Abelé 1757 champagne.
