The results of the Americas' stage of the International Property Awards 2015-2016 have just been announced and Royal Westmoreland is justifiably proud to be among the winners.

Royal Westmoreland competed against a number of the region's most accomplished developers to receive this recognition. The level of award or awards it has won (either highly commended or 5-star) will be revealed when the official announcements are made at a gala presentation dinner at the Hilton Hotel Barbados on Friday, October 23rd, 2015.

The company may even go on to represent their region in the final stage of the competition later this year. If it has attained the highest score in the development category, Royal Westmoreland will compete against other winning companies from Asia Pacific, Africa, Arabia, the UK and Europe for the coveted crown of World's Best Developer.

The award is a major achievement for Royal Westmoreland as entrants are judged against a strict set of criteria. Judging was undertaken by a panel of over 70 experts from all over the world and chaired by two active members of the House of Lords: Lord Caithness and Lord Best.

Stuart Shield, president of the International Property Awards, commented, "The Americas' developers have really taken up the gauntlet and submitted a number of outstanding developments. These projects are attractive to the eye, highly functional, eco-friendly and feature the latest state-of-the-art technology."

UK Based Leisure Entrepreneur and Royal Westmoreland Owner, John Morphet said, "For Royal Westmoreland to be recognised in the International Property Awards is a tremendous accolade. Since I purchased the Golf and Leisure Estate in 2004 we have striven to make the resort a six star experience for owners and guests alike. It is rewarding to achieve the plaudits and confirms that we have achieved the high standards to which we aspire."
