Scalextric released on XBOX ONE

Monday 5 November, 2018

Wednesday 7th November 2018: Scalextric (owned by Hornby Hobbies Ltd) will this week launch Scalextric on the XBOX ONE with this new game taking Scalextric racing to new and exciting heights.

The Scalextric game can be downloaded from the 7th November 2018 from the XBOX ONE store, priced at £9.99

Sabec Limited is a leading developer of high-quality innovative games, creating games offering a wide range of captivating and innovative games to players across the globe on multiple platforms.

The company recently announced the launch of its racing game, Scalextric, on the XBOX ONE, which allows players to enjoy racing with a unique feature, the track builder, which enables players to build their own circuits and then racing them in stunning High Definition and re-discovering the magic of Scalextric.

This is all made possible thanks to our innovative, yet easy to use track builder with players now being abble to use their creativity to build exciting circuits to race on, over and over again, making no race the same, just like the real sets.

Scalextric on the XBOX ONE comes with an unlimited number of track pieces and twelve pre-built World circuits.

Players have the option of racing either against their friends or the games artificial intelligence (AI) player. There are four classic cars to choose from, which can be customised to suit the player's preference. The games racing engine has been developed so players can easily change their viewpoint anytime, even while racing, to get the best possible view of the action.

Scalextric is NOW available on XBOX ONE, making it possible for lovers of racing games to enjoy one of the most captivating racing games ever.

More information about the game and how to download it can be found on the XBOX ONE store: https://www.microsoft.com/en-gb/p/scalextric/9nnhb89jdz85?rtc=1&activetab=pivot:overviewtab
