Schudio launches unique OFSTED Ready Website Tool

Monday 18 September, 2017

Continuing a long history of leading innovation in school website design, marketing and compliance, UK based school website agency Schudio have just launched a completely unique tool to help schools excel online.

The Schudio OFSTED Ready Website Tool has been developed so that every school in the UK can access a powerful tool and keep on top of website compliance all year round. The team at Schudio keep the requirements up to date, notify schools whenever a change in requirement is issued by DfE and provides free access to critical information.

Company co-Founder and Director Ian Richardson said;

> "We built the tool because headteachers and school website managers tell us all the time how time-consuming it is to keep on top of their website, particularly the compliance side of things. The tool is designed to make this incredibly easy - it's a simple step by step process with a side by side view of the school's website and the list of requirements. We've included the latest advice on how to exceed expectations and we'll keep all users up to date when anything changes."

Schudio also provide optional, managed services to run detailed, professional, all year round checks for schools that don't have the time to keep on top of that in house.

Schools can access the OFSTED Ready Website Guide and access to the tool for free at https://www.schudio.com/school-website-requirements/
