April 30, 2020 Portland, Ore. – SocialCBD, a leading global wellness company providing high-quality, lab-tested and certified solutions, launches “Thank You for Staying Home” campaign for Americans currently in quarantine due to the global Covid-19 pandemic. The offer, which includes several effect-driven products, has a single requirement to redeem: stay home.

“The program initially began with a focus on providing product to workers on the frontline, like first responders and nurses, people who are putting their health at risk to protect us all,” explains James Jeynes, Social CBD’s Chief Marketing Officer. “After seeing a truly incredible response, we decided to broaden that mission to the rest of the public. Flattening the curve is a nationwide effort and we recognize the sacrifices Americans are making every day to achieve that goal.”

The offer includes energy, stress and rest solutions, working to address key concerns during the prolonged periods of social distancing. “We understand that people are under a tremendous amount of pressure these days,” continues Jeynes. “We’ve built our company around human connection and wellbeing, and in that spirit, want show gratitude to people who are doing their part to benefit their communities and the country at large.”
