‘Sounds good’ as office furniture specialist ‘ORS’ expands into Audio Visual market

Friday 16 October, 2015

Midlands based Office Recycling Solutions 'ORS', one of the UK's leading resellers and installers of quality new and used office furniture has announced that it has taken a significant interest in Sensory Audio Visual Systems Limited 'Sensory'.

'Sensory' is an audio visual business located in Birmingham and focussed on installing high quality audio and video systems and video conferencing facilities to commercial, educational and high end hospitality venues.

ORS Managing Director Karl Ward stated 'Sensory is a business with great potential and is a good fit with our existing office refurbishment activities. It will enable us to offer additional services and skills to our customers which complement and extend our existing high quality product offer.

Brad Field, founder and Managing Director of Sensory noted 'I am delighted that an established leader in its field like ORS has recognised the potential of Sensory Audio Visual Systems

I am looking forward to working with Karl and his team to accelerate our planned growth enabling us to provide high quality audio visual services to a much wider audience.

Increasingly our clients are recognising that high quality audio visual technology is a proven way of creating the right environment for staff and customers alike. Video conferencing in particular has come of age as a means improving both business communication and efficiency in multi-site businesses and organisations.

'ORS' has operations located in Burton on Trent, Manchester and Alfreton and has an extensive office furniture showroom based at Trigate House at the junction of Wolverhampton and Hagley Road, in Quinton, Birmingham.
