

Spectacular Celebration of Black Heroes at London Living Room, City Hall

Friday 28 October, 2016

Launch of the Black Heroes Foundation

A Fund Raising Charity Event, launching the Black Heroes Foundation at the London Living Room, City Hall. An evening of celebration and edutainment, in honour of the late Peter Randolph Fraser aka Flip Fraser, the first editor of The Voice newspaper; and creator of the critically acclaimed show "Black Heroes in the Hall of Fame", in collaboration with JD Douglas and Khareem Jamal.

Flip was in the process of setting up Black Heroes Foundation, when in 2014 he became ill and sadly passed away. This venture is now being realised on his behalf, in honour of his memory and the phenomenal work that he created. This charitable body has been incorporated to support Flip's legacy.

The Black Heroes Foundation is a community based organisation for the development and promotion of talent, together with cultural and artistic initiatives in the community focusing on youth, education, training, personal development and social up-liftment. Its purpose the development of cultural awareness, promoting a world where Black Heroes are acknowledged, respected and celebrated.
