The problem...and the secret weapon

Installing tiles in any environment is hard work, requiring precision, attention to detail and no small amount of hard graft. Finding the right tiles to use has notoriously been a difficult task, with trends constantly changing and different suppliers offering different prices. This year's trend focus is a blue or grey palette, with wood-effect textures and soft colour combinations - your secret weapon is Crown Tiles, and it's just a few clicks away! Looking for a vast range of bathroom floor tiles and kitchen floor tiles all in one place? Crown Tiles is the new, simpler way to find the perfect tiles.

Advances in technology have driven innovative tile approaches in 2018, with kitchens seeing a grand porcelain revolution. It's attractive and durable, with the flexibility to be finished in smooth or textured style. And it's the tile trend that is defining 2018, so Crown Tiles have positioned themselves as one of the best places to get your porcelain tiles with minimal hassle. The service is entirely online, so customers can browse on any device they like, no matter where they are.

The company that cares

A company spokesperson told of the "constant headache" of having to "trawl through the tile outlets to see what is on offer". He said: "We just wanted to provide a place where people could look through a full range of bathroom floor tiles and kitchen floor tiles in one convenient place." Of course, Crown Tiles offer far more than just porcelain floor tiles for kitchens and bathrooms. Another trend that has set in is the printed tile, given a new dimension thanks to new technology for inkjet printing directly onto a tile.

Those who are looking to add tiles to a room, are probably already stuck in that "constant headache". Looking through the wide range of options available by skipping from one outlet to the next is time-consuming, laborious and just plain tedious.
