Stellar Lumens Are Now Available for Trading on CEX.IO

Friday 2 February, 2018

02 - February, 2018 - Stellar Lumens, unique digital assets, make their way to easier accessibility with the launch of XLM trading on a London-based cryptocurrency exchange CEX.IO. From now on, the users of CEX.IO are able to trade Lumens at a favourable rate and with a preferred currency, which is USD, EUR and BTC so far. The platform also allows depositing and withdrawing XLM to the user accounts. Due to specific features of the Stellar network, the users are to indicate their memo ID for the XLM transactions to be processed smoothly.

XLM has been showing a steady growth throughout its history, and recent XLM to USD price fluctuations indicate that the asset is in heavy demand among users. The ever-increasing interest from the public prompts the cryptocurrency community to spread the trading of XLM across more platforms.

CEX.IO is one of the few cryptocurrency exchanges that has Stellar Lumens (XLM) listed for trading. When it comes to adding new cryptocurrencies to the platform, CEX.IO has proven to be highly selective - it focuses on the most promising and unique options for their users. This is evidenced by the customer trust and loyalty, which the exchange has been earning since 2013.

Stellar Lumens introduced the community to the new era of multi-currency payments and are heading towards wider acceptance. With the addition of Stellar Lumens to CEX.IO, the users from 99% of the world will have a chance to benefit from fast seamless international transactions and micropayments with low fees. Besides, XLM serves as an attractive investment from both short-term and long-term perspectives, and now can be easily bought and securely held by CEX.IO customers for future purposes.
