

Sustain360° and K2 Consulting Partners Announce Strategic Partnership to Accelerate Supply Chain Intelligence and Climate Resilience for Global Organisations

Monday 29 June, 2026

Sustain360° and K2 Consulting Partners have signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), formalising a strategic partnership to deliver integrated supply chain intelligence, climate resilience, and transformation solutions for clients across multiple sectors and geographies.

The partnership combines Sustain360°'s advanced data and platform capabilities with K2 Consulting Partners' proven expertise in complex operational and organisational transformation. Together, the organisations will help clients anticipate disruption, strengthen compliance, reduce risk, and build resilient, sustainable operating models that can withstand increasing regulatory, environmental, and geopolitical pressures.

"This partnership enables organisations to move beyond reporting and into real operational resilience," said Baz Khuti, CEO and Founder of Sustain360°. "By uniting our platform with K2's transformation expertise, we can give leaders the intelligence, insight, and confidence to act decisively in an increasingly volatile environment."

Mike Hunter, CEO and Founder of K2 Consulting Partners, commented: "Our clients are under growing pressure to deliver sustainable, compliant, and resilient operations. By combining data-driven intelligence with hands-on transformation capability, this partnership allows us to deliver measurable outcomes that matter — from risk reduction to improved performance and long-term resilience."

The partnership will focus on joint business development, knowledge exchange, and integrated market engagement. Initial offerings will support organisations in mapping supply chain risk, meeting emerging regulatory requirements, and building climate-resilient operating models.

Both organisations share a commitment to helping clients build responsible, future-ready operations through the combination of technology, insight, and execution excellence.
