The Fight for Democracy: Voices of Liberty Documentary Calls for Local Stories

Wednesday 27 March, 2024

The upcoming documentary series Voices of Liberty, exploring democracy in Central Africa, is issuing an open call for local participation. Voices of Liberty embarks on a profound journey into the heart of the region, at a crossroads between a hopeful future and the shadows of authoritarianism, corruption, and conflict. Dedicated to fostering global awareness and support for democratic resilience, this docuseries aims to highlight the region's political evolution through the eyes of those who live it every day.

The docuseries will blend archival footage, expert interviews, and firsthand accounts to delve into the past, present, and future of life and politics in Central African nations. From colonial shadows and the struggle for independence to current threats of democratic backslide, Voices of Liberty investigates the interplay between social, corporate, and governmental developments over the last two centuries. Through this lens, the series explores how lessons from the past can drive economic growth, sustainable initiatives, and widespread education to guide the next generation of leaders towards a brighter future.

Already funded and currently in the midst of casting, Voices of Liberty is set to commence filming in July, targeting a summer 2025 release. Elwood Advisors' George Kefalas, representing the investors behind the project, commented, "We envision this series as a platform for unheard voices, bringing to light the challenges and triumphs of those pushing the boundaries of freedom and justice".

Over the course of four episodes, the series will weave together the narratives of activists, leaders, and citizens who are at the forefront of the fight for democracy and transparency. By giving a platform to these critical stories, Voices of Liberty seeks to galvanize local and international support for democratic initiatives across the region.

In preparation for this ambitious project, the Voices of Liberty team is seeking contributions from local citizens, leaders, experts, and grassroots initiatives who are willing to share their stories of struggle, resilience, and hope. Your voice is instrumental in shaping the discourse around democracy and liberty in Central Africa. Whether it's through archival footage, interviews, or firsthand accounts, Voices of Liberty promises to tell your story your way.

To participate, please submit a brief overview summarizing your proposal through this form.
