

The Powerful New LG G2 Is Now Available On Three.

Tuesday 1 October, 2013

LG's most advanced smartphone yet is now available from Three stores and online. The stunningly designed 5.2" full HD screen combined with its power and efficiency means you can make the most of Three's all-you-can-eat data packages without worrying about battery life.

This powerhouse of a phone offers low power consumption and is also 4G Ready, so you'll be ready for faster internetting when Three's 4G network starts to roll out and at no extra cost.

Three is offering the LG G2 with an upfront cost of £49 on a 24 month contract plan. Choose from £29 a month for the Ultimate Internet 500 or £32 a month for the Ultimate Internet 1000 which are both available with all-you-can-eat data. Otherwise for £35 per month you can opt for The One Plan that includes all-you-can-eat data, 2000 minutes of talk time and 5000 Three to Three minutes, plus 5000 texts.

Alternatively you can buy the device for £399.99 on Three's market leading Pay As You Go rates of 3p a minute, 2p a text and 1p a MB of data.

Sylvia Chind, head of devices at Three said: "The G2 has got some interesting new features and a slick design. It's also got some cutting edge technology that means it will be an attractive option for those that like to multi-task and stay constantly connected, especially with our all-you-can-eat data packages."

Key features:

- 5.2" Full HD IPS display with narrow bezel
- Stunning 13MP OIS Camera
- Ultimate battery power
- 4G Ready and a Qualcomm 2.3GHz quad-core processor
