Biography

Stephen Hendry MBE is a Scottish professional snooker player and a commentator for the BBC and ITV. As a seven-time World Champion, he is the most successful player in the modern era of the World Snooker Championship and holds the record for the most seasons as world number one (nine seasons). His first world title in 1990, at the age of 21, made him the youngest-ever World Champion, a record that he still holds.

Hendry also won six Masters titles (including five consecutively), and five UK Championship titles. One of only three players to have won all three Triple Crown events in a single season, Hendry is the only player to have achieved the feat twice, in the 1989–90 and 1995–96 seasons. A prolific break builder, Hendry has recorded a total of 775 career century breaks and made 11 officially recognised maximum breaks in professional competition.

He was awarded an MBE in 1994 and voted BBC Scotland's Sports Personality of the Year in 1987 and 1996. In May 2012, after featuring in his 27th consecutive World Championship, he announced his retirement from the game, bringing to an end his record 23 consecutive seasons in the top 16 of the world rankings.

In September 2020, it was announced that Hendry would come out of retirement after having been given an invitational tour card for the next two seasons.
