Search begins for the Top Employers for Working Families

Working Families calls for entries to find the leaders of the pack in the fast-changing world of flexible, family-friendly working

Working Families' [5] flexible working and work life awards for employers who are developing engaged and high-performing workforces open for entries today.

The flexible working landscape has changed considerably since the Top Employers for Working Families Special Awards were launched. The extension of flexible working rights to all, shared parental leave for new fathers, the increasing popularity of senior level flexibility, and the changing expectations of millennial workers all mean that future-thinking employers now, more than ever, need to offer exceptional workplaces if they are to attract and retain the best talent.

Now in their 8th year, the Special Awards [2] showcase and celebrate employers' work-life and flexible working policies and practices. Making the shortlist for a Special Award recognises best practice, innovation and sustainability and marks out winners as leaders in the field.

Employers from a diverse range of sectors will compete to catch the judges' [4] attention in the following categories:

Flexible Working

- The Direct Line Group Best for Embedded Flexibility award
- The Best Flexible Working Initiative Award
- The Best for Flexible Recruitment Award

Support for Working Parents, Carers and Families

- The Centrica Best for Modern Families Award
- The Carers UK Best for Carers and Eldercare Award
- The Best for All Stages of Motherhood Award
- The Best for All Stages of Fatherhood Award

Innovation and Engagement

- The Allen & Overy Innovation Award
- The Best for Line Manager Engagement Award

Best in Sector

- The Best Large Private Sector Employer Award
- The Best Small Employer Award
- The Best Public Sector Employer Award
- The Best Third Sector Employer Award

Sarah Jackson OBE, chief executive of Working Families said:

'Working Families is calling for employers everywhere to tell us about the great work that we know is going on across the UK in developing flexible, family-friendly and agile workplaces. As well as recognising the winning organisations, the awards help Working Families to spread the word and share good practice and inspiring new ideas. The judging panel [4] looks forward to reading this year's entries.'

Read what last year's entrants say about the awards:

'These awards send a clear message that the RAF recognises the importance of supporting our personnel in their work/life balance choices, reinforcing our commitment to retaining our people and attracting the best talent in a competitive marketplace'. RAF, Highly Commended, 2016

'The Working Families Awards and in particular the category of Best for Embedded Flexibility are important to Barclays, helping us to create sustainability around our Dynamic Working Campaign. We aim to ensure dynamic working is available for all our colleagues including our future talent and our alumni who may decide in the future to return to the Bank. The external recognition enables this momentum to continue.' Barclays, Winner, 2016

Winning ideas in 2016 included the Civil Service Job Share Finder Tool, Cisco's TimeSwap, JobSwap and Stretch Assignment Marketplace, Pinsent Mason's Project Sky and West Dunbartonshire Council's We Care that You Care strategy.
