The world’s most exclusive holidays if you have £40k to spare

Tuesday 14 April, 2015

For those who can and have a spare £40k or more, read on for Full Circle Travel's six most exclusive and luxurious holidays for 2015.

Hire out a hot-spring town, tour world icons in a jet, or relax on your own private island; six jaw-dropping holidays money (usually) can't buy.

Whichaway Camp – Antarctica

The Price Tag: From £46,000/person for 9 days

This remote camp set amidst the spectacular Antarctic landscape is powered by solar and wind and has strong ecological foundations, as well as a zero-impact philosophy. The guides are experienced polar explorers and activities include kite-skiing, ice-climbing and snow-trekking.

Sleep in one of six, luxury sleeping pods, and have fresh food prepared three times daily by one of Cape Town's best chefs. The Emperors and South Pole tours run for 9 days and are run three times annually in November and December. These exclusive tours are subject to limited availability.

(Including return flights from the UK to Cape Town, return transfers from Cape Town to Antarctica and all food, drink, accommodation and guiding fees in Antarctica).

Kuda Hithi Island, Coco Prive – Maldives

The price tag: up to £145,600/week – peak season.

This private island in the Maldives is the result of the collaboration between Coco Prive and Guz Wilkinson, the award-winning architect.

Home to a master residence and five neighbouring luxury villas, Kudi Hithi offers uninterrupted views of the Indian Ocean, along with luxurious living enhanced with every amenity imaginable and the discreet butler services of your personal host. All bookings for Kudi Hithi are tailored experiences; choose to incorporate adventure with a private diving instructor or be pampered at your personal spa with a dedicated therapist. In the evening, enjoy carefully crafted cuisine, prepared by your own personal chef to suit your palette, served with a complementary selection of wines from your very own cellar, chosen by the sommelier. Follow with the ultimate private party assisted by unforgettable creations from the cocktail bar; the options are endless.

(Return business flights from the UK from £2800 pp)

Dunton Hot Springs – Colorado USA

The Price Tag: Exclusive town hire from £95,550/week

If a private island doesn't cut it, how about booking out an entire ghost town? Just across the mountain from Telluride in Colorado, Dunton Hot Springs Resort is a romantic ghost town, set in an extraordinary alpine valley.

Accommodating up to 44 guests, the town is available to book exclusively, inclusive of all meals and drinks, activities, equipment hire, and use of the bath-house and hot springs.

(Return business flights from the UK from £2,800 pp)
