This is the shed you are looking for; now everyone can explore the galaxy

Friday 18 December, 2015

Taking inspiration from iconic sci-fi films, Waltons (www.waltons.co.uk), the national garden building online retailer, have created a space-themed shed.

The garden building specialist set themselves the challenge of building a unique shed that looks like it's teleported straight out of the movies. Moving away from traditional shed design, they have created a functional building that is out of this world.

The 'Space Shed' has multiple features such as opening windows and removable shelving, perfect for budding stargazers armed with their telescope. The shed could also be turned into an outdoor gaming room.

Aaron Ketland, a spokesperson for Waltons, said: “When talking about the idea of creating something different, something outstanding, we agreed that the Space Shed will be only one-off it's kind.

“The whole team enjoyed building this quirky potting shed. Fun fact is that only one person can take this shed apart and put it back together, as it's very unique. The shed could also be used as a gaming room, all you need to do is add electricity, a gaming chair and surround sound."

The 'Space Shed' (http://www.waltons.co.uk/waltons-space-shed) is made from a solid timber frame, clad with 12mm tongue and groove timber for strength and durability. It also has two opening shatterproof styrene windows for ventilation as well as two removable timber shelves, which provide an ideal storage solution.
