Tinnitus Support Group launches in Warrington

12/06/2017 A new group to support local people with tinnitus is being formed in Warrington. The first meeting will take place on Wednesday 5 July at 10am at UK Hearing Care, 103 Dalton Avenue, Birchwood Park, Warrington, WA3 6YF.

The group is being hosted by UK Hearing Care; their Business Development Director Clare Kewney says: “We are absolutely delighted to be setting up and hosting a new tinnitus support group in Warrington. We want to reach out and support anyone who is lives with tinnitus, provide a relaxing environment where people can share their experiences, gain information and advice and of course meet others who are in a similar situation. We hope as many people as possible will come to our meetings to find out more about the group, benefit from the support and have the opportunity to find out more about tinnitus and how they can help themselves. Refreshments will be provided and anyone is welcome to join us.”

Dave Carr, BTA Volunteering and Engagement Manager comments: “Being among people who have the problem, listening to their experiences and how they have managed to handle things, is a tremendous help for the individual. I witness this first hand when attending group meetings. It is amazing seeing the difference it makes to people, especially those who have recently been diagnosed.”

Tinnitus is defined as the experience of sounds with no external source, most commonly ringing or buzzing, but sometimes experienced as whooshing, clicking or even music. Many people aren’t troubled by sounds they hear, but for around 10%, the condition has a significant impact on their quality of life, often linked to stress, anxiety or sometimes depression.

Dave adds: “Tinnitus can be an isolating condition, with friends and family struggling to understand how it feels to adapt to the presence of loud or persistent noises. Some people choose to bring a partner or family member to the meetings, which can often help both parties understand more about the condition and the experiences or behaviours it can bring.”

Editors Notes

The British Tinnitus Association (BTA) is an independent charity which supports thousands of people who experience tinnitus and advises medical professionals from across the world.

The BTA is the primary source of support and information for people with tinnitus in the UK, facilitating an improved quality of life.

They aim to encourage prevention through its educational programme and to seek effective treatment for tinnitus through a medical research programme.

The support the BTA offers to 335,000 people per year who are affected by tinnitus is reliant upon the generous donations of their supporters and fundraisers. They receive no government support and need to raise half a million pounds each year to continue their UK wide support. Donations can be made via www.justgiving.com/BTA

Not an illness or disease, tinnitus is a term that describes the sensation of hearing a noise in the absence of an external sound. The noise can have virtually any quality. Ringing, whistling, and buzzing are common, but more complex sounds may also be reported. Troublesome tinnitus can be very distressing for the affected individual, and issues may arise with sleep, concentration and mood. However, in many cases, subtle changes in people’s environment can address these issues, and improve quality of life.
