Tinnitus UK launches world’s largest online tinnitus conference for 2023

Friday 2 June, 2023

Tinnitus UK has today announced that their annual tinnitus conference will again be held virtually this year, starting on Monday 25 September and running until Friday 29 September 2023.

Following the success of the 2022 event, which saw attendees from 23 countries take part in the event, the conference will offer flexibility for UK and international visitors with on-demand viewing, a dedicated networking area and an improved online interface.

The Tinnitus Conference 2023 – aimed at audiologists, ENTs, GPs, hearing care professionals, psychologists, tinnitus support group leaders, educators, student and researchers – takes place online this September with attendees getting full access to five days of lectures, case studies, networking meetings and seminars.

Each day of the conference will present a different theme, including the psychology of tinnitus, practical skills and the latest in tinnitus research, with more to be announced.

Speakers confirmed so far include a roster of international experts:

- Dr Eldré Beukes, Aston University (UK) - Social Representations of "Tinnitus" and "Health" among Individuals with Tinnitus Seeking Online Psychological Interventions
- Zahra Jafari, University of Lethbridge (Canada) - Tinnitus, sound intolerance, and mental health: the role of long-term occupational noise exposure
- Tinnitus UK - A tinnitus chatbot: digital tinnitus support
- Dr Marc Fagleson, East Tennessee State University (USA) – Tinnitus and traumatic memory
- Stefan Schoisswohl, University of Regensburg (Germany) - Unification of Treatments and Interventions for Tinnitus Patients (UNITI)

Caroline Savage, CEO of Tinnitus UK said: “We are delighted to be able to bring some of the best international experts to the Tinnitus Conference 2023, making it a “do not miss” event for the tinnitus community.

She added: “In these demanding times, the flexibility of an online conference, and the cost and time saving it offers, without any decrease in the quality of the sessions means the Tinnitus Conference continues to grow and helps promote progress to our ultimate goal, of a world where no one suffers from tinnitus.”

Once again, the headline sponsor will be Lenire®.

An ‘early bird’ rate of £100 will be available until 26 June 2023, with standard rate tickets costing £140. Group discounts are available. Tickets include access to all recorded conference material until 1 December 2023.

Tickets are available now. Visit www.tinnitusconference23book.co.uk for more information and to secure the early bird rate.

Notes to Editors

Tinnitus is the sensation of hearing a sound when there is no external source for that sound. Someone with tinnitus may hear ringing, buzzing, hissing, whistling or other noises. Tinnitus can be there all the time or come and go. The volume of someone's tinnitus can vary from one episode to the next.

Tinnitus comes in many types, but Tinnitus UK is here for everyone living with tinnitus.

We are striving for a world where no one suffers with tinnitus.

That's why we provide free support to anyone with tinnitus or caring for someone with tinnitus.

That's why we are leading the charge for more investment in tinnitus research.

That's why we are connecting the research community to people living with tinnitus to ensure those searching for new treatments and a cure understand the impact of tinnitus on everyday lives.

That's why we work with healthcare professionals to ensure you receive the right information to manage your tinnitus.

For every seven adults in the UK, one will have tinnitus. Think about that the next time you're in the supermarket, on the bus, or walking down the street. Tinnitus affects 7.6 million people in the UK – with 1.5 million of them having severe tinnitus.

To everyone living with tinnitus our message is clear – your struggle is our cause.
