About Trinity Buoy Wharf

Since Urban Space Management took over this vacant site in 1998, Trinity Buoy Wharf has seen a stream of artists, photographers, designer- makers and small businesses settle in its low-cost workspaces and studios. Home to a thriving creative community of over 600 people, Trinity Buoy Wharf is a base for Royal Drawing School, English National Opera, Thames Clippers, Faraday School, The Prince's Foundation, Parkour Generations and The Big Draw to name a few.

Trinity Buoy Wharf is committed to the growth of the arts and creative industries and has been hosting a number of art exhibitions and experiences since its beginnings in 1998. Collaborations and shows in recent years include the Trinity Buoy Wharf Drawing Prize, Royal Drawing School's End of Year Shows and regular exhibitions by Trinity Buoy Wharf's tenants and students. Trinity Buoy Wharf has been hosting the National Portrait Gallery's "BP Portrait Award" judging panel every year since 2014. Long running projects include the "Longplayer", set in the former lamp room of the historic Lighthouse, ever evolving sculpture park by Andrew Baldwin, and a growing collection of art installations located around the site.
