

UK-based Forex & CFD broker DF Markets adds Spread Betting to portfolio of services

Monday 10 March, 2014

London, United Kingdom (5 March 2014) – DF Markets has announced a new service: Financial Spread Betting (www.dfmarkets.co.uk/sb) – an alternative to CFD trading that gives clients from the UK and Ireland the ability to place bets on the price movements of thousands of financial markets, including currencies, shares, stock indices, commodities and more.

An important advantage of Spread Betting over CFD trading comes from the fact that it is exempt from Capital Gains Tax and Stamp Duty in the UK. It should be noted that tax treatment is dependent on individual circumstances and that tax laws are subject to change. Also, spread bettors pay no commission on their trades.

DF Markets offers the new Spread Betting service through the desktop, web-based, and mobile versions of its proprietary DFTrader SB platform, which has been tailored to the specifics of spread betting. All three versions of the platform boast a professional yet easy-to-use interface, powerful trading tools, and an advanced charting package, which are intended to give clients a smooth and trouble-free trading experience.

Spread betting is a leveraged product. This means that clients only need to deposit a small percentage of the full value of a given trade, which will leave them with more money available for betting on other markets.

Along with the new service, DF Markets is launching two promotional programmes designed for new clients who want to sign up for a spread betting account: 10% Trading Credit on Deposit and £30 No Deposit Welcome Bonus.
