

UPVC Doors UK Rely On FENSA and CERTASS Registered Suppliers

Tuesday 31 January, 2012

(United Kingdom - 30th January 2012) In an industry as competitive as home improvements, companies must ensure they provide the highest quality products matched with unrivalled customer service. UPVC Doors UK has proven popular with customers looking for trusted UPVC doors fitters in recent weeks as it announced the latest improvements on the site. The new stringent vetting system and three quote system ensure customers that the best deals in the industry can be found from the most professional FENSA and CERTASS accredited. suppliers in the area.

Customers at UPVC Doors UK can remain rest assured that any work carried out on their home will be problem free. Customers will receive the best possible value for money on their UPVC doors installation and all work will be carried out to the Supplier Performance Charter. Both FENSA and CERTASS suppliers are leading assessment bodies for building and home improvement regulations.

Any homeowner looking to invest in UPVC doors this winter are invited to visit UPVC Doors UK where trusted suppliers can be found for competitive prices. After filling in the free, no obligation quote form on the site, customers can sit back and relax whilst a member of the team does the rest of the hard work. Three competitive quotes from FENSA and CERTASS registered suppliers will be found and advice on installation and the benefits of UPVC doors in the home will be given.

A member of the team will call each customer individually, offering help on the best options available. Customers are not obliged to take on work from any of the suppliers nor must they pay for any quotes found.

To take advantage of the innovative system which was recently put in place and to save up to 75% off installation prices on UPVC doors in the home, visit the site by clicking here.
