

Urban Synergy wins top prize at London’s New Year’s Day Parade for Lewisham

Monday 6 January, 2025

Urban Synergy, Lewisham’s Mayor’s chosen charity for 2024/25, has brought home first prize from the London New Year’s Day Parade (LNYDP), marking the first win for Lewisham since 1998. Despite relentless rain, the team’s float—“A Brighter Tomorrow: Powered by Youth and Innovation”—impressed judges and spectators alike, showcasing the creativity, talent, and community spirit of Lewisham’s young people.

The parade, watched by millions around the world, saw the social mobility charity Urban Synergy’s vibrant float designed by independent and local artists from Goldsmiths University and brought to life by Mahogany Carnival Arts, Lewisham Youth Theatre, local community groups, and SQS, who generously provided the parade lorry.

The win comes with a significant prize, which will go directly towards supporting Urban Synergy’s mission to help 50,000 young people by 2027 through mentorship, skills development, and work experience programmes.

Leila Thomas (she/her), CEO & Founder of Urban Synergy, said: “Winning this prestigious prize is an incredible way to kick off the year. Despite the pouring rain, our young people, artists, and community partners showed their resilience and determination. This win is not just for Urban Synergy, but for Lewisham and young people in urban areas as a whole. We’re excited to use this prize to create more opportunities for people aged 9-24 years of age to reach their full potential.”

Proposed Quotes:

• Brenda Dacres (she/her), Mayor of Lewisham:
“This win is a triumph for Lewisham! It’s a reflection of our borough’s creativity, resilience, and community spirit. Urban Synergy has done us proud, and I’m thrilled that this prize will help them continue their vital work with our young people.”

• Victoria Shaskan (she/her), CEO of Lewisham Youth Theatre:
“Lewisham Youth Theatre is a charity that raises young people’s ambitions and empowers their voices through creativity. We were thrilled for our young performers to lead the parade entry - like bursts of sunshine on a wet day - bringing their energy and passion to help Lewisham win.

“The young performers said, ‘We loved interacting with the audiences - waving and giving high fives. Even though it was cold and wet, seeing the audience’s eyes light up when we shouted Happy New Year made it worth it.’”

The Urban Synergy float celebrated a brighter future powered by youth, featuring a bold design and performances that highlighted innovation and ambition. The parade’s organisers praised the float for its energy and creativity, standing out even in challenging weather conditions.

Thank you to everyone involved—from the artists and dancers to local supporters and sponsors, including SQS, Lewisham Youth Theatre, and Goldsmiths University and the artists Morgan Tucker, Yumeng Kuai, Alma Tischlerwood and Saskia Olde Wolbers. Our thanks also to Ces Serventi of Inkwood Studios and young broadcaster of the Been There Done That Chat podcast Garima Ojha for helping us to capture the excitement of the day.

Together, we’ve started the year on a high note for Lewisham’s young people.
