

Weight-Loss Specialist PPRX Partners with Zooki to Launch Exclusive GLP-1 Wellness Range

Tuesday 29 September, 2026

PPRX, the UK online pharmacy specialising in weight management, has partnered with British nutrition and wellness brand Zooki to launch an exclusive collection of wellness bundles created with the wider needs of people using GLP-1 weight-management treatments in mind.

LONDON, UK — September 2026

PPRX, a UK registered online pharmacy specialising in private weight management and weight-loss services, has announced a new partnership with premium British nutrition and wellness brand Zooki.

The partnership will see the launch of an exclusive PPRX x Zooki GLP-1 Wellness Range, bringing together specially selected Zooki products across nutrition, hydration, muscle and strength, hair and skin, and everyday wellness.

The collaboration brings together two complementary areas of expertise: PPRX's specialist focus on private weight management and Zooki's established position in premium nutrition and supplementation.

Rather than viewing weight loss solely through the lens of medication or the number on the scales, PPRX is developing a broader approach to the weight-management journey — incorporating conversations around nutrition, hydration, physical activity, muscle maintenance and general wellbeing.

The new PPRX x Zooki range forms an important part of that strategy.

Bringing Premium Nutrition into the Weight-Management Journey

Zooki has established a strong presence in the British nutrition and wellness market through its innovative approach to premium supplementation and convenient product formats.

Its growing portfolio spans vitamins and minerals, collagen, creatine, electrolytes, gut health, beauty, performance and everyday nutrition, with products available in formats including liposomal supplements, capsules, powders and liquid sachets.

PPRX identified an opportunity to bring carefully selected products from this range together in a way that complements the wider lifestyle considerations of people undertaking a weight-management journey.

As part of the development of the new offering, PPRX has held discussions and received nutritional input and advice from Sarah Carolides, MA, MPhil (Cantab), DiplON, CISN, MRSM, Head of Nutrition at Zooki, helping to inform the wider nutritional thinking behind the range.

The result is a collection of five exclusive bundles designed to make it simpler for customers to incorporate selected nutritional products into their daily routines.

Looking Beyond Weight Loss Alone

The rapid growth in GLP-1 weight-management treatments has changed the landscape of private weight-loss care in the UK.

For PPRX, the prescription is only one element of a much wider journey.

The company believes that as the sector develops, greater attention will increasingly be placed on the overall experience of weight management — including nutrition, hydration, physical activity, maintaining muscle and developing sustainable lifestyle habits.

Omar Kadir, Founder and CEO of PPRX, said:

“The way people approach weight loss is changing. Medication can be an important part of the journey for appropriate patients, but we don't believe the conversation should end with a prescription

“As people lose weight, we want them to think about the bigger picture — what they're eating, hydration, exercise, maintaining muscle and looking after their overall wellbeing.

“Zooki has built an impressive British wellness brand with innovative, premium products across many of these areas. There was a natural fit between their expertise in nutrition and our specialist focus on weight management. “Working with Zooki and having the opportunity to discuss the range with their nutrition team has allowed us to create something specifically for the PPRX customer. Rather than simply putting individual supplements on a website, we've brought products together into carefully considered bundles covering different aspects of the weight-management journey.

“This partnership is also part of our wider vision for PPRX. We want to build a modern weight-management service that looks beyond medication and supports customers across their broader health, nutrition and wellness journey.”

A New Approach to Weight Management

PPRX is positioning the collaboration as part of a much broader development of its weight-management service.

The London-based pharmacy is focused on building an experience that extends beyond the traditional transactional online-pharmacy model, bringing together professional pharmacy services, weight-management treatment, nutrition, lifestyle and ongoing support.

The partnership with Zooki represents another step in that strategy, combining PPRX's specialist focus on weight management with a recognised British brand operating across the nutrition and wellness sector.

PPRX plans to continue expanding its wider weight-management offering as the needs of patients and the UK private weight-management market evolve.

About PPRX

PPRX is a London-based UK registered online pharmacy specialising in private weight management and weight-loss services.

Founded by Omar Kadir, PPRX combines professional pharmacy services with a growing range of health, nutrition and wellness support built around the wider weight-management journey.

PPRX's approach is focused on developing weight-management care beyond the prescription itself, with greater emphasis on the wider factors that can contribute to a sustainable weight-loss journey.

About Zooki

Zooki is a British premium nutrition and wellness brand known for its innovative approach to supplementation and its focus on making high-quality nutrition convenient and enjoyable.

The brand has developed a broad portfolio spanning vitamins and minerals, collagen, creatine, electrolytes, gut health, beauty, performance and everyday wellness.

Zooki is particularly recognised for its innovative supplement formats, including liposomal products and convenient liquid sachets, alongside capsules and powdered formulations.

Through continued product development and a strong focus on the consumer experience, Zooki has established a distinctive presence within the UK's growing health, nutrition and wellness sector.

The partnership with PPRX brings together Zooki's nutritional expertise and product portfolio with PPRX's specialist focus on the rapidly developing private weight-management market.

Food supplements should not be used as a substitute for a varied, balanced diet and healthy lifestyle. Individual nutritional requirements vary. The PPRX x Zooki bundles are not intended to treat, prevent or cure any medical condition, and customers should seek appropriate professional advice where required.
