Wednesday 19 September, 2012

You've got your Christmas plans sewn up, and the whole family is looking forward to coming around to yours to celebrate a traditional festive get-together.

But once all the hard work of hosting and catering for everyone is done, how will you get over those post-Christmas blues, when the weather's grim outside and everyone's getting back into their old routine?

Simple. You treat yourself to one of the great selection of January breaks now open for booking at a Warner Leisure Hotel.

If you're going to be rushed off your feet with visitors at and through Christmas, then why not book a break for when they've all gone home. You never know – you might really appreciate the chance to recover!

And what better way to do it than by booking into one of our fantastic hotels? Our stunning locations range from perfect rural retreats in the likes of tranquil Cheshire and pretty Herefordshire, to coastal hotels in choice spots in West Sussex and on the Isle of Wight.

Their settings may be tranquil, but if you stay at one of our hotels over the New Year, you can party all the way through the holiday. We've a fantastic programme of entertainment and great dining lined up for you, so you can spend some quality time in good company. Who knows, you could even make lots of great new friends?

"Once Christmas is done and dusted, there's a temptation to get your head down and work solidly through until Easter," said Warner Leisure Hotels' marketing manager, Jason Riseborough.

"But all of our 13 properties offer such a wide range of short breaks that you won't want to wait that long before indulging yourself."

To check out the full range of new year breaks available, visit the Warner Leisure Hotels website or call us on 0844 871 4523, any time between 9am and 9pm, seven days a week. And remember to book quickly, because lots of our breaks are in high demand from our many previous visitors who come back time and again!
