Corporates Partner with SocialBox.Biz to Achieve Impact Goals & Empower Underserved Communities via Tech Reuse

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, DECEMBER 17, 2025 - This Christmas season, SocialBox.Biz is inviting organisations to hone in on corporate social responsibility via a simple collaboration that benefits both organisations and those in need.

SocialBox.Biz offers a simple partnership in which organisations reuse outdated but still usable tech before IT disposal and recycling takes place. Then, the technology is securely wiped clear of its data and loaded with open source tools with some suitable items helping those in need. This simple strategy helps organisations reduce their carbon footprint while also fostering practical inclusion, putting technology in the hands of those who need it the most.

Environmental sustainability and social inclusion go hand in hand, according to SocialBox.Biz. "IT equipment reuse can simultaneously shrink carbon footprints and champion inclusive community development, setting a new benchmark for corporate social responsibility," said the team at SocialBox.Biz. The SocialBox.Biz initiative yields measurable social impact and benefits for its partners. Corporate impact and reduced Scope 3 emissions can be maximised via SocialBox.Biz and included in annual reports; even companies without access to items can participate in SocialBox.Biz impact plans and sponsor computer classes and IT training; receive impact reports; and more.

This Christmas, SocialBox.Biz asks organisations to consider donating their outdated but usable tech to this incredible campaign and to purchase SocialBoxBiz impact plans and support SocialBoxBiz Community Interest Company. Entities seeking to reduce Scope 3 emissions find that the SocialBox.Biz initiative is a perfect solution while also offering an avenue for social responsibility by way of giving to the elderly and others in need. Age UKs in London, C4WS, and other charitable entities are grateful for SocialBoxBiz securely reused laptops with open source software laptops for empowering their clients with technology that connects them to education, careers, and communication tools. To participate, organisations can simply connect with SocialBox.Biz.

SocialBox.Biz provides a seamless, secure service including:
Certified Data Wiping: Adherence to over 20 global security standards, including NIST 800-88 and ISO 27001.

According to SocialBox.Biz a London based community interest company -- 3 out of 5 companies want to boost their social impact but lack surplus IT hardware to donate.
