Xerox Appoints Jonathan Elliott As Director & General Manager To Lead U.K. Public Sector Team

Wednesday 2 August, 2017

Xerox today announced the appointment of Jonathan Elliott as director and general manager for public sector (including higher education, health, local and central government) operations in the U.K., effective immediately.

In his new role, Elliott is responsible for driving business growth across managed document services and technology to expand Xerox's presence across the U.K. public sector market.

'The digital agenda has been at the heart of public sector for a number of years now and driving true digital transformation from a legacy of paper intensive processes is at the core of our capability,' said Elliott. 'Customer expectations of the digital experience are not going to stand still, so neither can those delivering services to them. I look forward to working with the team here at Xerox to enable the public sector to transform services for the citizens of the U.K..'

Elliott joined Xerox in 1998 and has since held a number of leadership positions across Xerox's business including service delivery, marketing in both the public sector and private sector markets. He holds a Bachelors of Science in Business from Aston University.

As a supplier to the U.K. government and public sector for more than 40 years, Xerox provides document management and technology to a wide range of public sector organisations including Department for Work and Pensions,Luton & Dunstable NHS Foundation Trust, Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust, Maidstone and Tunbridge Wells NHS Trust and Poole Hospital NHS Foundation Trust.
