

Xpertnest Ranked Among the UK's 500 Fastest Growing Companies- Data Driven Recognition

Tuesday 8 July, 2025

In that list of 500 companies, Xpertnest is named amongst some familiar names like EasyJet, Octopus Energy, OVO Energy, Revolut, Zopa, Starling Bank, Luton Town Football Club, Wrexham AFC and other high-growth powerhouses.

Xpertnest is delighted to be recognised in the prestigious list of the UK's 500 fastest growing companies. Business Leader presented the Growth500 list- the 500 most exciting fast-growth businesses in Britain. The event was hosted on the 2nd July 2025 at the Sky Garden in London. Supported by NatWest, Deutsche Bank, BGF, PwC, Sage, Allicia Bank and City A.M, the awards provided a platform to showcase the country's most exciting, high-growth Success Stories.

The Growth500 is an annual list and program created by Business Leader, and awards the UK's 500 fastest-growing companies. Compiled and researched by Robert Watts – the compiler of The Sunday Times Rich List – the list is a credible source to know the fastest growing companies in the UK. Watts did the ranking in a data-driven manner. He did the work to trace the UK's fastest growing companies. There were no self-nominations, no sponsored entries, and no private data submissions – everything was independent, objective and merit-based. The revenue increases of each company were calculated from publicly filed annual accounts with Companies House using a range of approaches.

This list showcases both established industry leaders and unicorns, alongside the next generation of emerging unicorns poised to fuel the future growth of UK businesses and the UK economy. The position of Xpertnest in that rare few, is proof of how well the company has evolved over the years. This sort of success has made Xpertnest a national sensation, like other fast-growing companies. Business Leader's Growth500's recognition of Xpertnest is the result of several milestones in the company's growth.

Why is Growth500 So Reliable?

The compilation of the list was born out of an idea by Business Leader, a business media and membership community (by mid-market business for mid-market businesses) as part of its mission to help mid-sized businesses grow in difficult economic times. It's named, from NatWest to PwC, after how companies of all stripes and sizes, from green businesses to tech start-ups, are "actively pursuing scale, even in tougher conditions".

The Growth500 is the ultimate recognition of companies who are on the way up in the business Universe. Curated and collated by Robert Watts, the compiler of The Sunday Times Rich List, the list is based on analytically executed research. Paid sponsorships, self-nominations, and private data submissions are no longer part of the ranking process, which is now entirely independent and performance-driven.

Each company was evaluated in multiple validation checks according to their performance and was measured through publically available financial data filed at Companies House. The eligibility requirements were any and all UK companies which had turned over more than a certain amount a year, but no maximum, thus permitting start-ups and scale-ups of all sizes to compete.

UK business owners and entrepreneurs converged at the Sky Garden for the Business Leader Growth500 Awards. The building is commonly referred to as the "Walkie Talkie" skyscraper. The evening was one of inspiration and recognition for some of the UK's most exciting businesses.

What Lies Ahead for Xpertnest?
