XRP market value surpasses McDonald's, BTCMiner cloud mining ignites a new round of crypto asset investment boom

July 23, 2025

In the short moment of market shock, XRP (Ripple) completed a symbolic leap: its circulation market value briefly exceeded US$215 billion, surpassing the traditional giant McDonald's valuation of US$211 billion. This milestone not only rekindled investors' imagination of XRP's long-term growth potential, but also opened up new wealth entrances for innovative investment channels such as cloud mining.

Industry analysts believe that as more banks and payment institutions embrace Ripple technology, the possibility of XRP hitting $100 or even higher prices in the future is increasing

Against the backdrop of the rising market value of XRP, cloud mining platform BTC Miner has launched an exclusive XRP mining contract service to create a low-threshold, highly transparent, and stable-income crypto-value-added channel for global investors

XRP mining contract with guaranteed principal and interest: users can enjoy principal protection and daily fixed income upon investment, and get rid of the risk of currency price fluctuations;

No equipment or technology required: users can mine with one click through their mobile phones, and the platform automatically completes computing power matching and operation;

Daily income settlement, withdrawal at any time: support for XRP, BTC, USDT and other currencies, flexible capital flow;

Green mining concept: the mine is driven by hydropower and solar energy, responding to the trend of environmental protection and sustainable development;
