Thursday 19 September, 2024

With a wide array of options to choose from, how do you pick the right eyeglass frame for your unique face shape? With a pair of glasses that accentuate your features, match your personality, and enhance your confidence and style, this guide will provide you with all the necessary guidance to help you find the ideal pair of glasses to complement your face shape.

1. Identifying Your Face Shape

It firstly needs to know about your face if you want to choose a perfect glasses. Even though we all have the unique face, it can be divided into the following.

- ? Oval: balance proportions, slightly wider cheekbones, and slightly curved jaw.
- ? Round: full cheeks, rounded chin, almost equal width and height.
- ? Square: prominent jawline, broad forehead and broad jaw.
- ? Heart-shaped: wide forehead, and gradually narrows to a smaller chin.
- ? Diamond: narrow forehead, lower jaw, wider cheekbones.

It is essential to identify your face shape to narrow down the glasses style, which will improve your natural features. It ensures that the selected frame will set off your face shape, and reflect your personality to advance your confidence.

2. Frame Styles for Each Face Shape

Once you have determined your face shape, it will be easier to choose the suitable frame.

Thus, how to select your perfect glasses?

For Oval Faces

Lucky you! You will be fitted almost frames due to your balanced proportion. You can try to use rectangular, square or round frames to create your versatile look. But, do not to choose the oversized frame.

For Round Faces

In order to advance the definition for your soft curve, you can try the angular and geometric frames, such as rectangular frames, square frames. The such frames is helpful to appropriately elongate your face so as to improve your looking with structuredness. Remember, the round frames would increase your roundness.

For Square Faces

If you have a square face, you can try to use the round frames and oval frames to soften the jawline and broad forehead. They will balance your angular feature, and increase the softness. Do not choose any angular frames, which will strengthen your face.

For Heart-shaped Faces

For your related wider forehead and narrower jaw, the frames with wider bottom can do the effective balance. For example, the round and oval frames are nice options, and it will be excellent if there are colorful or detailed design.

For Diamond Faces

For the people who have the related narrower broadhead and jaw, cat-eye and oval frames can help to improve your face shape. With the such frame glasses, it makes the focal points stand out your eyes, and soften your face angle. Besides, do not choose the narrow frames which would make your face be more longer.

About the color of ideal frame, it needs to be determined by your skin tone.

Warm Skin Tones

If your skin belongs to warm tone, and like gold, yellow or olive color, the frames with brown, gold, beige or olive color are suitable for you. Besides, the glasses with tortoiseshell pattern is also a nice option.

Cool Skin Tones

For people with the cool skin tone, they need the complementary color, such as black, silver, gray, blue and so on. And the crystal clear frames are also stylish options.

Neutral Skin Tones

How lucky you are! Almost color will be fitted on your face. In addition, you definitely try some bold colors, like red, purple or pink. Beyond that, the frames with vibrant patterns are also a nice option.

4. Considerations of Lifestyle

It is not just for pretty looking, your lifestyle is an essential role which impacts your decision on glasses options and perfect fit.

Professional Setting

While you want to choose an ideal glasses for the formal occasions or workplace, the glasses with professional feeling should be considered. It is the ideal options that the classic square or oval frames with the neutral colors, like black, brown, gray, etc. In addition, lightweight and acetate frames glasses provide the polished look, but it would not attract much attention so as to ensure your professional character figure.

Active Lifestyle

It is critical to keep the durability and comfort for people who are active and vibrant to face life. For these people, it is applicable to choose the frames with strong but lightweight materials, like titanium and TR90. The materials are flexibility and resilience against impacts so as to become your perfect options while you are going to do sports or outdoor activities.

Fashion-Forward

If you are a person of character, be bold to choose a unique glasses which can reflect your personality, do not shy away from the vibrant colors, nontraditional shapes or stylish details. The fashion-forward options would help you do the self-expression, keep your personal fashion and engage the attention of the others.

5. Considerations of Lenses

While you are selecting your frame, do not forget lenses. It is affected by your vision needs and daily activities, which shows some considerable elements.

Single Vision VS Progressive Lenses

Your vision field will be corrected by single vision lenses. However, for the people who need the multifocal correction with no visible lines, the progressive lenses provide the seamless transition for the different field of vision so that it will be a versatile option.

Anti-Reflective Coating

While you need to spend a lot of time on screens and bright light, it is helpful to choose the lenses with anti-reflective coating function. It can achieve the maximum reduction of glare, improve the visual clarity and ensure the comfort of eye for long-term wear.

Blue Light Filtering

The use of digital equipments keeps increasing, thereby, the use of lenses with blue light filtering is valued. Because it will help to reduce eye fatigue and strain, protect eyes from the potential harm due to long-term prolonged exposure under the blue light.

Make sure you have at least one pair of classic styles in your eyeglass collection. Classic oval or tortoiseshell eyeglass frames display lasting appeal and versatility. These timeless designs stay stylish through the years, making them a reliable choice no matter how fashion trends change. Classic style eyeglasses are the cornerstone of your everyday look, adding elegance and class to your appearance and showcasing your unique style.
